Spoke At Raleigh, North Carolina, This Morning On Southern Industries.

COMPLIMENTS STATE AND PEOPLE

Calls Attention To The Railroad Condition, Growth of Manufacturing And Also To The Square Deal.

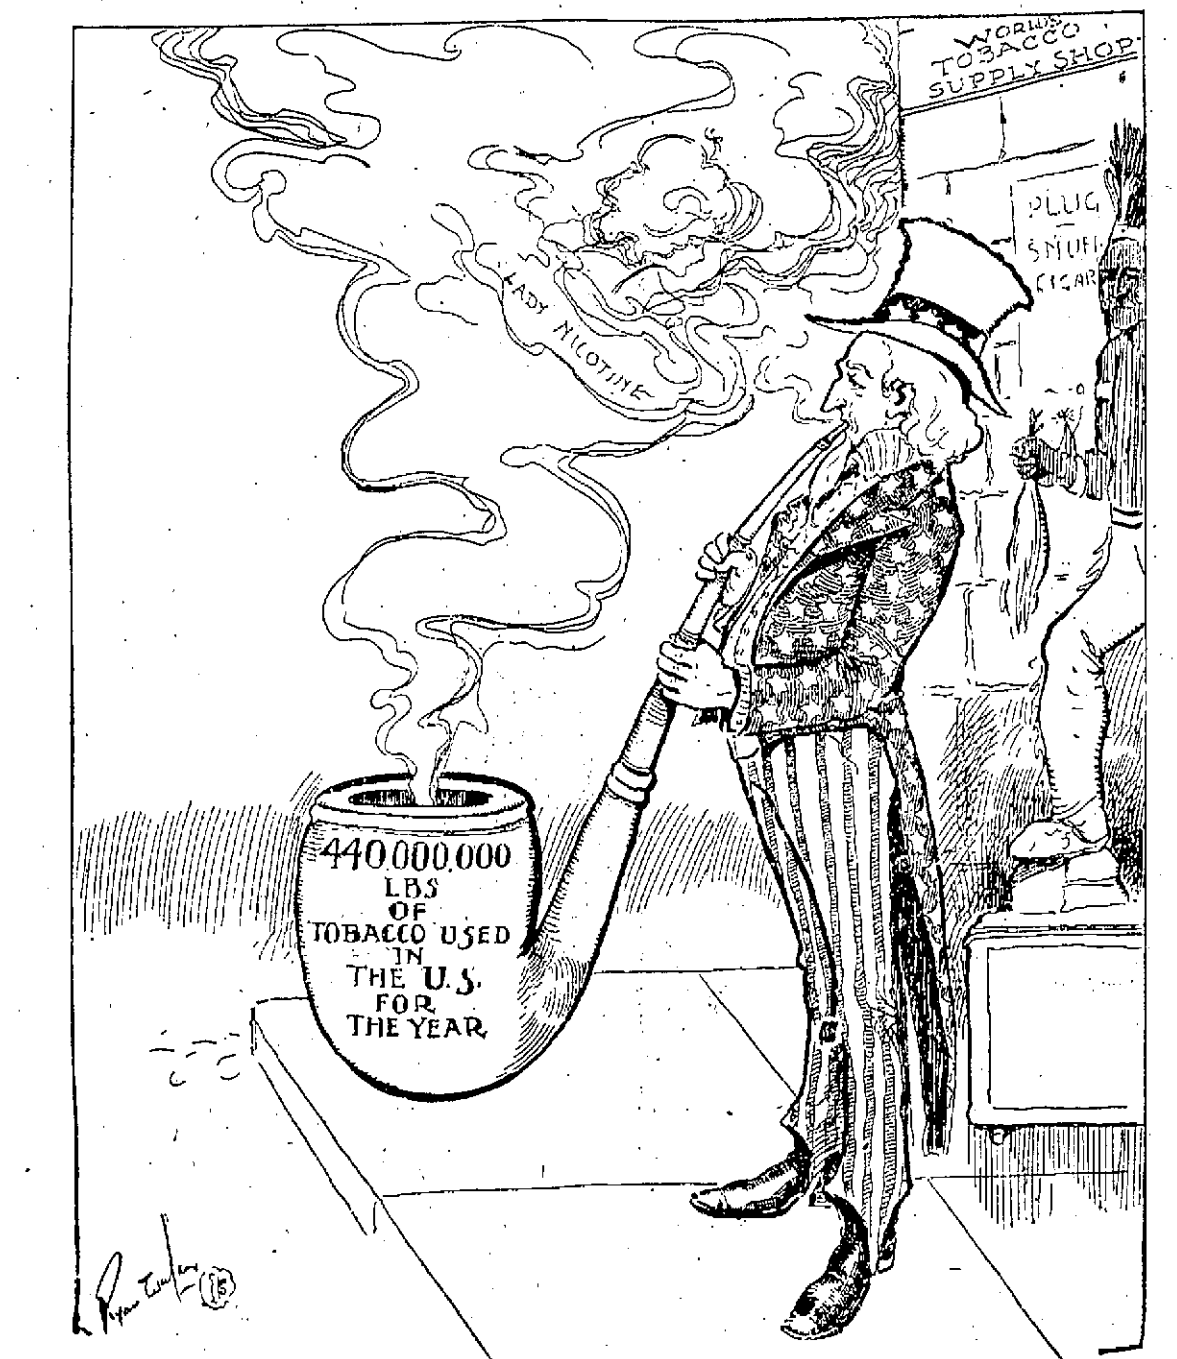

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 19.—The President reached this city at nine o'clock this morning. He arrived at a point six miles north at one o'clock and was sidetracked in a cottonfield until a few minutes before nine. A number of country people gathered at daylight and cheered. The President appeared on the rear platform and said, "Good morning to you all." He took breakfast with Secretary Loeb, Rixey, McHenry and Greenway. On reaching Raleigh the lieutenant-governor and a reception committee boarded the train and escorted President Roosevelt to the capitol and thence to the fairgrounds, where he spoke. He said in part: "I am glad here at the capital of North Carolina to have a chance to greet so many of the sons and daughters of your great state. North Carolina's part in our history has ever been high and honorable. It was in North Carolina that the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence was taken in a few short months by the representatives of the thirteen colonies assembled in Philadelphia. North Carolina can rightfully say that she pointed us the way which led to the formation of the new nation. In the Revolution she did many memorable deeds; and the battle of King's Mountain marked the turning point of the Revolutionary war in the south. But I congratulate you not only upon your past, but upon your present. I congratulate you upon the great industrial activity shown in your commonwealth, an industrial activity which, to mention but one thing, has placed this state second only to one other in the number of its textile factories. You are showing in practical fashion your realization of the truth that there must be a foundation of material well-being in order that any community may make real and rapid progress. And I am happy to say that you are in addition showing in practical fashion your understanding of the great truth that this material well-being, though necessary as a foundation, can only be the foundation, and that upon it must be raised the superstructure of a higher life, if the commonwealth is to stand as it should stand. More and more you are giving care and attention to education; and education means the promotion not only of industry, but of that good citizenship which rests upon individual rights and upon the recognition by each individual that he has duties as well as rights—in other words, of that good citizenship which rests upon moral integrity and intellectual freedom. The man must be decent in his home life, his private life, of course; but this is not by itself enough. The man who fails to be honest and brave both in his political franchise and in his private business contributes to political and social anarchy. Self-government is not an easy thing. Only those communities are fit for it in which the average individual practices the virtues of self-command, of self-restraint, of wise disinterestedness combined with wise self-interest; where the individual possesses common sense, honesty and courage. The position of honor in your parade today is held by the Confederate veterans. They by their deeds reflect credit upon their descendants and upon all Americans, both because they did their duty in war and because they did their duty in peace. Now if the young men, their sons, will not only prove that they possess the same power of fealty to an ideal, but will also show the efficiency in the ranks of industrial life that their fathers, the Confederate veterans, showed that they possessed in the ranks of war, the industrial future of this great and typically American commonwealth is assured. The President then dwelt at length on the railroad question and touched upon the growth of industrial work. He referred to the interstate commerce condition and closed with his characteristic plea for a square deal. He said in closing: "When I say a square deal I mean a square deal; exactly as much a square deal for the rich man as for the poor man; but no more. Let each stand on his merits, receive what is due him, and be judged according to his deserts. To more he is not entitled, and less he shall not have."

MUTUAL COMPANY IS LICENSED

First Society Under New Law Organized by Illinois Operators.
Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—The state insurance department has licensed the incorporation of the Illinois Operators' Mutual Employees' Liability Insurance company, the first of its kind to be organized under the new law which went into effect July 1, 1905. One of the advantages of the new company is to do away with the services of local attorneys to look after cases filed against coal companies. General counsel will be engaged to take charge of all litigation. The law passed by the last legislature gives corporations engaged in a similar business the right to organize mutual companies. The organization includes thirty-two coal companies of Illinois.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The stockholders of the Chicago & North-Western Ry. held their annual meeting here today and were asked to approve of the leasing of the property of the Chicago & State Line and the Milwaukee & State Line, running from Mayfair to Lake Bluff, from there to St. Francis and Milwaukee; also the leasing of the Manitowoc to Green Bay and Gillette, Wis. All these lines have been built by the Chicago & North-Western and the vote of the stockholders approving the leases was a mere formality. The line from Manitowoc to Green Bay will be in operation by December 1.

PULLMAN CO. Big Profits.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pullman company was also held here today. The records show, it is stated, that the corporation has a surplus exceeding $20,000,000. The last year is said to have been the best in the history of the company, fifteen per cent having been earned on the capital stock which totals $74,000,000. It is understood that an extra cash dividend will soon be declared.

M'CURDY TELLS OF MANY NEW FACTS OF INTEREST TO PUBLIC

Insurance Scandal Probe Continues To Be Very Fruitful as to Methods.
[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
New York, Oct. 19.—President McCurdy in his testimony today said for large loans the Mutual charged two per cent and for some loan three per cent. Hughes asked him if an effort was made to get a higher rate from the Morristown Trust company. McCurdy said that he did not recall any such effort ever being made.

McCurdy said the reason the Morristown company paid only two per cent was for fear the Mutual's balance would be suddenly withdrawn. Hughes showed the smallest balance that the Mutual had in the Morristown Trust company since 1900 was two hundred thousand dollars. He also showed that the Mutual owned seventeen hundred and fifty and McCurdy five hundred and twelve of the six thousand shares of the Morristown company. He asked McCurdy if there could have been danger of sudden withdrawal, to which McCurdy answered: "I really could not say." Mr. McCurdy said the Mutual, being part owner, received a benefit of the Morristown dividends. This was partly the reason for the low interest. McCurdy admitted that he was a depositor in the Morristown Trust company and received three per cent.
Restores 'Old Wage Scale'.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 19.—Edward George Cunliffe, accused of stealing a hundred and one thousand dollars from the Adams Express company at Bridgeport on October 9, was arrested here this morning in front of the hotel where he has been staying since the day after the robbery. He admits his guilt and says he was seized by a sudden desire for money and placed the package under his arm and walked out. He refuses to tell where the money is, saying it is in a safe place where he can get it when he wants it. He only had three hundred dollars when arrested.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

Mrs. Kirsten Neergaard of Kenosha is dead. Four weeks ago she fell on an alleged defective sidewalk and one of her ribs was broken, which punctured the lung.
Nathan Allen of Kenosha, as expected, is included in the list of directors of the Central Leather company, which has been finally organized.
The old Kenosha postoffice has been converted into a bakery and was being used by a man named Desmonie, an Italian, until yesterday, when Desmonie was ordered to close up the bakeshop at once.
Albert Roifers, a farmhand working on a farm south of Ashland, fell from a wagon, and a wagon wheel passed over the back of his neck, killing him instantly. His mother and brothers live at Depere.
John Grady and Frank Mills, who have been arrested at Kenosha on a charge of having robbed Thomas Hansen of $200 and who had been discharged by a justice, turned over to Hansen every cent of money they had, stating that they would do their best to make restitution if he believed they took the money.
The state board of control has adjourned without letting a contract for furniture for the new congregation dining-room at the Mendota hospital or electing a successor to Deputy Warden Harvey of the state prison at Waupun, who recently resigned. The bids submitted for the furniture were all regarded as too high.
An enthusiastic meeting of the committees of Kilbourn and Baraboo, appointed to push the project of an electric road between the Dells of Wisconsin and Devil's Lake, via Baraboo, was held in Baraboo, and a resolution adopted to employ Engineer H. E. French of Baraboo to make preliminary surveys of two routes. The cost is estimated at $150,000.

POLITICS MIXED WITH THE BANK

Closing Of The Pittsburg Bank Yesterday Dis-closes Sad State Of Affairs.

LOANS MADE TO THE POLITICIANS

Suicide Of The Cashier Really Closed The Doors For An Investigation That Is Very Far Reaching.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 19.—In the closing of the doors of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny, which took place Wednesday after the cashier, T. Lee Clark, had killed himself, is seen a scandal which involves several prominent republican politicians. The bank, which was the oldest in Allegheny, was the depository for about $800,000 of state funds. The greater part of this, perhaps $700,000, it is stated by Fred Gwinner, the aged president of the bank, had been lent by Cashier Clark to politicians.
Mr. Gwinner in his statement said: "Nearly $700,000 of the $800,000 state deposits of our bank is out on paper of state politicians. W. H. Andrews has borrowed nearly $400,000; Frank J. Torrance has borrowed considerable. I do not know how much. But the bank is solvent."
Loans to Development Company.
When pressed for specific instances for loans made to Andrews and Torrance Mr. Gwinner modified his first statement by saying that the books of the bank do not show that they personally borrowed money from it; but that the money was given to the Pennsylvania Development Company, an Arizona railroad scheme, in which about $400,000 was involved.
The bank was closed by the order of the comptroller of currency, W. B. Ridgely, and John W. Cunningham, national bank examiner, in charge. The concern need not have been closed down but for the suicide of T. Lee Clark, cashier, who took laudanum and shot himself in the head at his home about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, from which he died at 3:10 P. M.
Was Elder in Church.
Clark was an elder in the United Presbyterian church at Bellevue. The bank examiner found his accounts in a muddled condition, brought on by Clark's connection with the Pennsylvania Development Company. This concern has securities aggregating $300,000 in the bank. Comptroller Ridgely ordered the securities striken out from the bank's assets. This was about to be done when Clark killed himself.
The depositors knew nothing of this and up to 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon deposits were made by patrons and no money was withdrawn as a result of the self-destruction of Cashier Clark.
The closing of the bank will bring to light remarkable financial deals in which Arthur Kenney, formerly state senator; William H. Andrews, senator from New Mexico; Francis J. Torrance and Cashier Clark were interested. They attempted to float the Santa Fe Central railroad, connecting the Rock Island and the Santa Fe railroads, ninety miles long.
Railroad Scheme Falls.
They had also purchased the land on either side and had given the Santa Fe Railroad company an option to buy the whole. The final option expired Oct. 16, after having been renewed from Sept. 15.
Last Saturday the Santa Fe officials notified Senator William H. Andrews and Arthur Kenney, who were carrying on the negotiations, that they would not take up the option. Senator Andrews hurried to Washington and Senator Kenney was in New York. They failed to interest other parties and could not get the Santa Fe to reconsider its action. Not having enough money to complete the railroad and to meet their obligations the whole thing caused a crash.
T. Lee Clark, cashier of the Enterprise National bank, according to the best information, with Torrance and Kenney raised the needed money to carry on the scheme, while Senator Andrews gave his personal attention to carrying forward the work.
Ridgely Investigates Bank.
Two weeks ago Comptroller Ridgely spent several days in Pittsburg examining into the securities of the Pennsylvania Development company. He went away and advised his bank examiner that as soon as he could reach the Enterprise National bank he should examine its books and compel the directors to take up the Pennsylvania Development company's paper for cash or other securities.
Francis J. Torrance, head of the Standard Manufacturing company and one of the leading republicans of Pennsylvania, who has been closely identified with the workings of the bank, is lying at the point of death. Clark, the cashier, now dead; W. R. Andrews, formerly of Pittsburg, now territorial representative of New Mexico at Washington, and former State Senator Kenney had, it appears, been the main figures in the Santa Fe deal. The option, if closed, meant a fortune to each of those named.
The bank had been carrying according to best information, about $700,000 in paper on Pennsylvania politicians. Among this was $200,000 for Andrews and others on the Santa Fe deal.

WOMAN SMUGGLES DIAMOND NECKLACE

Customs Officials Succeed in Enriching Uncle Sam's Treasury After Long Chase Over Country.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The special agents of the treasury department recently succeeded in locating a valuable diamond necklace which was smuggled into the country and securing a large amount of customs duties which the owner sought to evade. Some weeks ago the treasury officials received information that a woman of means living in New York, whose name is carefully suppressed, had purchased abroad a necklace for which she paid $22,000 and had succeeded in getting it through the line of baggage inspectors at New York. Her name and residence were given to the customs officials, who went promptly to work on the case.
On calling at her home it was learned that she had gone to Philadelphia, where they followed. From Philadelphia she went to Chicago and from there to Boston, thence to New York again. The customs officials in close pursuit. She was finally located in a New York theater. When approached the woman said that the diamonds in the necklace she then wore were not genuine and pleaded with the officers not publicly to disgrace her by making the arrest in the theater, promising to surrender to them the necklace she had procured in Europe if they would call at her residence the following morning.
This arrangement was agreed to, but on the officers going to her house the next morning the woman was not to be found. Her attorney later called at the custom house and in her name paid the officials about $13,000, which represented the duties properly chargeable on the jewels and the named penalty.

APPEALS FROM JUDGE'S DECISION

Gains Point In Effort to Take Case to Circuit Court After Hard-Fought Legal Battle.

Wooster, Ohio, Oct. 19.—The hatred engendered between the contending forces in the Taggart trial culminated Wednesday night in the private chambers of Judge Eason, when a legal battle for the possession of Culver Taggart was fought out and temporarily won by the attorneys for Mrs. Taggart.
Attorneys for Mrs. Taggart made a formal motion for appeal to the circuit court of that portion of the case which pertains to the custody of the children. Judge Eason at first refused to grant the appeal. Judge Critchfield, recently employed by Mrs. Taggart, read a section of an ancient Ohio statute which provides plainly for the appeal of a divorce case where custody of children is in question. Judge Eason then said he would grant the appeal, providing a good bond could be furnished. The bond was given.
During the proceedings warm words passed between the attorneys and blows were averred only by Judge Eason. Mr. Shields of Chicago, Mrs. Taggart's brother-in-law, once shook his umbrella defiantly at Mr. Wertz and said: "You call me a liar and I'll break your head."
Explosion Kills Two Men.
Lead, S. D., Oct. 19.—A premature explosion of blasts in the Homestake mine caused the instant death of Torren Anderson and Baldo Pascoe.
Mrs. Mary McNamee, aged 68, wife of President Thomas McNamee of the Wabash National bank, died yesterday at Wabash, Ind.

CONTROL OF BIG PAPER CHANGES

JOHN R. McLEAN NOW AT HEAD OF WASHINGTON POST.

A HISTORY OF THE PAPER

American Tells of Honor Done Him by Kaiser Wilhelm—Was at a Royal Banquet.

(From William Wolf Smith.)
Special Correspondence.

Washington, D. C.—Not since the success which attended the efforts of President Roosevelt to reconcile the differences between Japan and Russia over the peace treaty has Washington had such a general topic of discussion as the change in ownership of the Washington Post, which this week passed into the hands of John R. McLean. A small volume might easily be written about this interesting paper, probably the most widely quoted in the country, as it is the only morning paper published at the Capital and the only one making any pretense at editorial strength. Reflecting public sentiment at the Nation's Capital, its influence in moulding opinion and, indirectly, in shaping legislation, can scarcely be estimated, but that it has been and will be a most powerful factor cannot be questioned. Consequently, its passage from the hands of the heirs of the late Benjamin Wilkins into those of Mr. McLean has been a fruitful theme of gossip and speculation, particularly on "newspaper row."

It is a condition so well known that the saying so is trite that no business pays greater profits proportionate to the investment that the publication of successful newspapers, but that more money is sunk in failures than is made in successes. Newspapers resemble gold mines in that where thousands are sunk in developing a worthless shaft, just as many are made by accidental discovery. For instance in the Washington News, a comfortable fortune was sunk before that ill-starred publication suspended, while the Evening Star, which originally cost its present owners only a small percentage of what was lost in the News, is one of the best paying properties in the United States. On the other hand, where the News cost its backers at least $300,000, the Times was started by a handful of printers out of work, and although its existence in earlier days was precarious, has weathered all storms and in the possession of Mr. Munsey promises to become a great money maker. He is now erecting a home for it which cannot cost much less than three quarters of a million. "Washington is the graveyard of newspapers," quotes everyone when a paper is born here, and in most instances the stork has scarcely left the nest before the infant is unceremoniously snuffed out. It is therefore not unusual that the Post has passed through trying times. That it has emerged triumphant is evidenced by the fact that the controlling interest, cost Mr. McLean some six or eight hundred thousand dollars.

Some years ago, about twenty, I believe, the Post, with whose earlier stages I am not so familiar, fell into the hands of Shiloh Hutchins. A business man and a newspaper man, Mr. Hutchins was also a newspaper broker in that he bought them to sell. So it was he who sold the Post to several enterprising but unfortunate gentlemen, the paper coming back to him each time on defaulted payments. Frank Hutton, First Assistant Postmaster General in the Arthur Cabinet, I believe, lost his place when Cleveland came in. About the same time Beriah Wilkins, an Ohio member of Congress, stepped out, which could scarcely be excelled from a standpoint of excellence; Hutton the brilliant, forceful and vigorous editorial writer and Wilkins a thorough business man whose early training had been that of a banker. To them Hutchins sold the Post with the pleasing anticipation that it would come again into his possession. But Hutton and Wilkins were made of different stuff. What heroic labors they endured, what corners were turned and what resources were utilized by them to raise the necessary funds to meet the payments, are unwritten history. But, almost by their hearts' blood they paid for the property and since then the Post has never been headed. Hutton had charge "upstairs" and not only gathered about him an excellent executive and editorial force but conducted one of the most brilliant editorial pages published in the business office. Mr. Wilkins secured an equally capable force and on the one hand and the other supervised the expenditures with exactness. When well on its feet, Mr. Hutton passed away and from his widow Mr. Wilkins purchased her half interest for it is said, about one hundred thousand dollars. The same said to Mr. McLean only about eight or ten years later for approximately three quarters of a million. Some years ago, Mr. Wilkins retired, leaving the management of the paper to his eldest son, whom he had carefully reared for that purpose. A skillful business man, and of a delightful and pleasing personality, Mr. Wilkins was easily the most prominent and most promising young man of his age in the city, as well as the most influential.

Offers were repeatedly made for the Post but as often declined and it was understood that it was not for sale. Consequently the surprise was very great when it was announced that Mr. McLean had acquired from the Wilkins estate a half interest in the Post, but this surprise became bewildering when it developed that in addition to purchasing a half of the Wilkins holdings, Mr. McLean had acquired an odd lot of either one or two shares which had belonged to the Painter estate, thus giving him absolute control of the paper, upstairs and down, the margin being small but sufficient. "What will he do with it? This is the question on everybody's tongue. It is not conceived that Mr. McLean has further political ambitions. He made a gallant, if a losing fight for the Ohio governorship which cost him a barrel of money. That he might have had the vice-presidential nomination on several occasions had he wished to accept it, is quite probable, but he did not care, for many reasons, to make the race. Some say that he bought the Post to further his interests in this city, which are varied and extensive. This can be safely set down as far from the truth, for Mr. McLean is of the old style newspaper man, and not merely a millionaire, debasing the lofty and moral influence of a great paper to further private gains. That he will make a better newspaper out of the Post than it has hitherto been, is the popular belief, for it has had many weak points. Starting in the business under the eye of his father, Washington McLean, he had a thorough newspaper training and the success of the Cincinnati Enquirer is a monument to his great ability. Always a money-maker, Mr. McLean has the reputation of almost never making a losing investment and with his wealth quoted at from ten to twenty million dollars, it is probable it may be even double the latter amount. In late years his investments in and about Washington have been very heavy. He has acquired all of the block on which the Shoreham hotel stands, except that one piece. This is destined in a few years to be one of the most valuable blocks in the city for business purposes, surrounded as it is by hotels and parks, etc. He also has a controlling interest in the Washington Gas Company, a large interest in the Riggs National bank and the American Security and Trust company, the wealthiest financial institutions in the city. His real estate holdings include a square in the northwest residential section which he purchased as a playground for his only son and his associates, and a country estate admirably located.

William McLean is a most modest and unassuming man, a delightful companion, and of democratic tastes. Surrounding himself with capable men, he has bound them to him by generous and just treatment. What plans he may have as to the future of the Washington Post, are, of course, unknown, but one thing is certain, that the newspaper profession at the Capital is the gainer, because of his entrance into the field.

To hob-nob with royalty is not a privilege granted to many of us and no matter how we may swell out our crests and prate of democracy and every American being as good as a King, those who travel realize that although America is undoubtedly the best, still "there are others" and that recognition extended by a ruling monarch to an American citizen, is in the eyes of a large part of the world, regarded as a high distinction. In spite of the boasted civilization of the twentieth century it is well to remember that most of the world still clings to Kings and Princes and that, although Washington has a reputation for being the same old today, therefore, like the man who was anxious to "shake the hand that shook the hand of Sullivan" it gave me a distinct thrill of snobbish pleasure to meet a friend last evening who had stood in the presence of royalty unadorned and unashamed, and feel I was thus in touch with the real thing. In fact my friend and his name would be recognized instantly for he is well known and prominently influential, admitted it gave him a feeling of peculiar satisfaction that not often comes his way and with these preliminaries, I will tell the story briefly, as he told it to me.

He was traveling in Germany not long ago, when it was intimated to him that Emperor William II wished to see him and would send him word at an early date when he would be received. Later a telegram caught him at Dresden, from which place he made all haste to Berlin, to attend a grand banquet given by the Emperor to his military staff. "On the evening mentioned," he continued, "I presented myself at the palace, with my dinner card and was promptly admitted to the banquet hall. Here I found myself surrounded by a brilliant assemblage; three hundred generals in glittering uniforms, gorgeously decorated with flashing orders won on bloody battlefields or presented in recognition of administrative merits, clustered in groups and talked with more or less animation in guttural tones. Among that throng I was the only one in the conventional dress of my country and for a few moments I felt unpleasantly conscious of the fact that my plain black dress suit stood out in bold relief against the glittering background of scarlet and gold, blue and silver, and the trappings of the Great German army. To compose myself I glanced about the room with my hands behind my back, inspecting the paintings of battle scenes and the portraits of famous Kings and generals. While doing so I could not but think that in America we are equal and every citizen being the peer of our president, and the latter the equal of throned Kings and respected as such, therefore, humble, modest and obscure as I was, I was yet as good as the best of them. My self-possession returned and from then on I thoroughly enjoyed myself. "I do not speak German and if anyone else spoke English they did not give evidence of their familiarity with our language. Hence, it was only by holding up a flunker, almost as gorgeous and imposing as a general, that I ascertained my position at the table. It was directly opposite the Emperor," he added impressively, continuing "and when we were seated there I was the sole stranger in the midst of the military strength of a great nation. A reception and for a few minutes chatted with his officers and then sent for Von Buelow. I was standing at one side where I could take it all in without being unduly conspicuous, and to my amazement, I soon saw the Chancellor approaching me. He bore a message the Kaiser wished to speak with me. On being presented he extended his hand, American fashion and during a hearty hand shake he said: "I am pleased to meet you, Mr. Blank." When asked me how I enjoyed myself at the banquet I told him the most enjoyable feature was hearing for the first time that evening my beloved native tongue and from the principal figure in that gay and brilliant assembly. And so," he concluded, "we got along famously."

"Is that all," I inquired, my ears twitching with eagerness to hear what the Emperor had said. "No," he replied; "that was not all, and at the proper time and place I may have something to say on the matter," and as he is in a position to say it and is capable of doing so, I have no doubt he will. There is in this possibly a lesson which is that an American gentleman was recognized by the Kaiser and notwithstanding his plain black suit was received and entertained and had the privilege of private conversation before such a gathering. Bewildered or breast would have been lost to view and would have meant nothing, as they would have presented little, while the plain evening costume had behind it and spoke for the dignity and conscious, though unpretentious, power of a great nation. "Court costumes" for our representatives abroad will not, it is safe to say, be favored by the gentleman in question, who, by the way, is in a position to have something to say on the subject.

The negroes of Southern Maryland have largely followed the Catholic faith which was planted there in the time of the Calverts. By them Cardinal Gibbons is venerated to a high degree and many a small black boy is named after him. Cardinal Gibbons name, plain English, is James Gibbons, but his position in the church makes his official nomenclature, James Cardinal Gibbons. Therefore, it not infrequently happens that the proud mammy has her male offspring baptized, "James Cardinal Gibbons, Junior" or "Bowie" or what it may be. Not far from here lives Annie Jones who bestowed James Cardinal Gibbons upon her eldest son. Some years passed and again Mrs. Jones bore to the baptismal fountain a mitre of black humanity. "What name," inquired the priest, "George, Admiral Dewey," responded the proud and happy mother with the accent on the "mi." "What?" the astonishing inquiry. "George, Admiral Dewey" she repeated. "Why there is no such name. What do you mean?" "Well, father you see his dis-a-way. I done named the first one 'James Cardinal Gibbons' so his father he done say this one must be named 'George, Admiral Dewey' (with accent on the 'mi') I know who Cardinal Gibbons is," she muttered, "but I don't know nothing about this here Dewey." But his father said he must be named after that there man who fit so w-a-y out yonder." So George, Admiral Dewey, was duly baptized.

BELOIT'S PRESIDENT IS OUT

College Trustees Reluctantly Accept Dr. Eaton's Resignation.
Beloit, Wis., Oct. 18.—The resignation of President Eaton of Beloit college, due to ill health, was accepted reluctantly by the board of trustees yesterday. The hope is held that two or three years rest may bring him back, and probably nothing will be done toward choosing a successor for some time. Dean George L. Cobb will be acting president. Dr. Eaton's plans are not positively known. Probably he will accept a call to the Congregational church of St. Johnsbury, Vt., which was renewed this week. During his regime the college property and endowment has increased greatly, and has taken place among the leading institutions of learning. He was graduated from Beloit in 1872.

WILL WISCONSIN DEFEAT CHICAGO?

MADISON REPORTS SAY BADGERS EXPECT A VICTORY.

KING COACHING MEN HARD

Tells Them They Are Improving Daily—Much Confidence Among the Students.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—The Badgers are ready for the maroons. "Ready to whip them," as Captain Vanderboom said. Wisconsin expects to win the championship game at Camp Randall Saturday. The preparation of the team is completed and the coaches appear complacent as to the outcome. Tuesday evening Head Coach King told the assembled players that if they continued to improve as they had in the past few days Saturday would find them invincible. Since that time the improvement has been surprising. The greatest care has been taken in the hard practice scrimmages of the week to guard against injury to the players. This was seen in the replacing of Roseth by Clark at fullback, Wednesday afternoon, Roseth sustaining a slight injury to his knee and complaining against being taken out when Dr. Kraenzlein insisted. It is said that the Wisconsin team is in splendid physical condition, notwithstanding numerous bear stories purporting to come direct from the training quarters. Better than this is the fact that Remp, who was on the "ragged edge" on account of scholarship, will surely play against Chicago, having satisfied Professor T. S. Adams, faculty supervisor of athletics, of his qualifications to enter the intercollegiate contest. Clark, the veteran halfback, who is being used this year as general all-around man, at halfback, fullback and left end, is still under some faculty restraint on account of studies, but will probably get things fixed up properly in time to go into the game when called upon. Captain Vanderboom has gone into the scrimmage work and has surprised his critics very agreeably by making a fine showing of speed, skill and strength. He wears a specially prepared face mask which completely encircles his face, leaving only small holes for the eyes and nose. It is said that some mortal enters into the construction of this mask, but not enough to make the thing dangerous to other players at all. Unless Vanderboom wears this mask his recently fractured jaw will make him so vulnerable to injury that he will remain in the name only a short time. If no protest is made against the wearing of the novel mask, it is believed that any reasonable protest can be made in this case, Vanderboom may last the entire game. Naturally it is earnestly hoped in Madison that he will last. Some fear that Chicago will aim at the crippled Vanderboom and try to "lay him out," in which case it is assumed that swift retaliation will be directed against Bockersall and others of the Chicago team. Herein lies an element of danger that the necessarily fierce struggle will degenerate into a slugging match, but the prevailing opinion here is that it will at all times be a contest of pure football conducted by all in manly, sportsmanlike fashion. Certainly there seems no basis for the report given general circulation in Chicago, that Wisconsin will "go after Bockersall" from the first whistle and seek by slugging methods to deprive the Chicago eleven of its great quarterback and kicker. Old graduates, who served under King in his seven years' regime at Madison, declare that he does not teach that kind of football, and in fact, teaches his men that if a team devotes itself to an illegitimate attempt to "lay out" a player on the opposing team, such attempt will be accompanied by a lessening of power along the line of proper and effective play and will result disastrously to the team making the attempt. Of course, if any such plan were at present contemplated, it would not be known out of training quarters, and probably not outside of the one or two men designated as the "sluggers" of the "marked man" and it would be useless to report the inevitable denial of the Wisconsin coaches that any such thing is planned, but the story is to say the least very improbable, being contrary to the accepted standard of Phil King as remembered by all who played under him and who are here to speak. King believes, they say, in going after the opposing team with no gentleness, but he has never been known to deliberately instruct his men to "lay out" an opposing star.

The feeling in Madison is decidedly that Wisconsin will win the game. It is expected that the Badgers will make three or four touchdowns, but it is not expected that the after-goals of all will be kicked, and the score is predicted at 16 to 23 for Wisconsin, to not more than 5 to 11 for Chicago. Great fear is entertained that Bockersall will score with his boot and thus few predict a shutout for the maroons. It is taken for granted that if Chicago has difficulty in advancing against the Badgers, and difficulty is assured, that Bockersall will be called upon for a drop kick whenever the maroons get the ball within striking distance of the Wisconsin goal posts. Special drill has been given the cardinal men in the art of blocking kicks and it is prayed that they will be able to worry the nervy maroons kicker enough so that his foot will be less powerful and his aim for the crossbar less certain as a consequence. Another fear is that Bockersall or another of the fleet Chicago backs will be fortunate enough to get through the Wisconsin team for a long run and a touchdown, but this is not so strong a fear as is based on the quarterback's kicking ability.

Betting on the result has commenced here, but is not brisk. Wisconsin demands odds as high as two to one and Chicago money is on at hand at that price. That is the present situation. A report was current early in the week that $1,500 of Chicago money had arrived to be placed at odds of eight to five, with Chicago on the long end, but diligent search by Wisconsin backers failed to find it. In all probability even money will prevail Saturday, but the tendency will be for the Badgers to ask some inducements in the way of odds before risking the hard-earned money of their parents. On the basis of the spirit of confidence which prevails among the students here the odds, if any, ought to be long on Wisconsin, but it is a "cliché" that none will be offered. It is assumed that there is "money to burn" in the Midway institution and that liberal odds will have to be offered by the possessors of it or the limited sums in the jeans of the Badger backers will not suffice to cover near the amount that will "seek action" on the game.

In the recent practice scrimmages, Remp has been out of his place at center, on account of a severe cold, which threatened to develop into a fever. He was put to bed and nursed so as to avoid the possibility of losing his services. Donovan has been at his usual place at left guard and Bertke at left tackle. Brindley will doubtless play left end. He has responded tolerably well to the special individual coaching of "Slam" Anderson, the famous star end of Wisconsin seven years ago. Gelbach will play right guard unless King at the last moment determines that Hunt is able to enter the game. Hunt has found his sprained ankle more serious than was supposed. At right tackle Johnson has the preference, but it is not improbable that Deering, who has been in Remp's place at center this week, will be seen there. Ex-teacher Captain Bush at right end, Findlay at right halfback and Metzner at quarterback are certainties. Vanderboom will start the game at left halfback and Roseth at fullback, leaving Clark to go in wherever and whenever he is wanted, providing the faculty ban is lifted.

The easiest way to prepare a quick breakfast is to use Mrs. Austin's Pancake flour.

REV. ROTH OF GREENVILLE, PENNSYLVANIA, IN THE CITY

Former President of Thiel College Arrived Last Evening and Will Speak Tonight.

Rev. T. B. Roth, D. D., of Greenville, Pa., arrived in Janesville last evening and is the guest of Rev. W. P. Christy, pastor of the English Lutheran church. Dr. Roth was formerly president of Thiel College and editor of "The Young Lutheran." Besides being a fluent and eloquent speaker he is an expert humorist to be a capital entertainer and his lecture on "Plymouth Rock and Other Rocks" this evening will doubtless be well attended. No admission is to be charged and the invitation is general.

Eat Right and Feel Right.

Take Care Of Your Stomach and You Will Escape No End of Trouble—One Perfect Food.

Some people resort to drugs for every little ache or pain—drugs which may stimulate but which cannot cure, if, indeed, there really is anything to be cured. Many of the ills with which we are afflicted are due solely to eating the wrong kind of food, or eating too much or not getting enough exercise to properly digest what we do eat. We can't abuse the stomach without paying a penalty. This penalty is most frequently indigestion, with all its accompanying distresses. Eat the right kind of food and you will not suffer.

And the right kind of food isn't medicine at all. It's a natural malted whole wheat flour, Malta-Vita, the most delicious, the most satisfying food in the world, always fresh and crisp, containing every food element necessary for the sustenance and upbuilding of the body and the brain. A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita. Being a pure grain product it is rich in food elements of the best white wheat grown and the finest barley malt extract—intensely vitalizing and easy for even the weakest stomach to digest, just the food to begin the day with, and it's good three times a day.

I had been a sufferer from nervous debility and indigestion for several years, without any benefit or relief from various tonics and other medical prescriptions. Imagine my surprise when, a short time after beginning the use of Malta-Vita I became aware of its beneficial effects by the gradual disappearance of my long-standing ailment. Malta-Vita is incomparable in its nourishing, digestive and strengthening qualities and is deserving of the greatest praise. P. Gerspser, Barnesville, Ohio.

All grocers sell Malta-Vita at 10c per package. Try some with cream or fruit. You never tasted anything so good and you will be glad we told you about it. Ready to eat.

Labor Notes

British advices put the number of working days lost by strikers in the United Kingdom last year below any on record. There were fewer and smaller disputes than ever before. Less than one per cent of the industrial population participated in strikes. Even these lost 1,450,000 days, but that is small compared with 1,225,000 for each of the four previous years.

The great strike of cotton mill operatives of Saxony and Thuringia, which lasted four weeks, and which was participated in by over 40,000 workers has been settled by compromise. According to the terms of the agreement the working day in the factories is to be ten and one-half hours.

The three principal planks of the A. F. L. platform are:
1.—Compulsory education.
2.—Direct legislation through the initiative and referendum.
3.—A legal work-day of not more than eight hours.

A delegation of members of the Philadelphia, Pa., Master Plumbers' Association recently called on Director Martin of the Department of Health to urge that he favor the project to license journeymen plumbers, as is done with master plumbers.

The National Letter Carriers' Association, in convention at Portland, Ore., declared against affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

In Victoria, Australia, all furniture, whether imported or manufactured, must be stamped with the makers name and address, and such stamp must indicate whether the furniture was made by European or Chinese labor.

Ask your grocer for Mrs. Austin's Pancake flour. Fresh and delicious.

FREIGHT WRECKED NEAR FT. ATKINSON

Portion of Northbound Train Out of This City Last Evening Left Rails and Blocked Traffic.

Last night the northbound freight that left Janesville at 4:30 p. m. over the Road du Lac division of the North-Western, was wrecked two miles this side of Fort Atkinson. Several cars were derailed and the wrecking crew sent out from here was kept busy for three hours. The cars remaining on the track were pulled back to Koshtkonong siding. Southbound trains were held at Ft. Atkinson until the tracks were cleared.

DESTROY THE CAUSE.

You Cannot Cure Dandruff Without Destroying the Cause of it.

Many people wash their scalps Saturday night or Sunday to try to keep the dandruff down for the week, but on Monday night the scalp has begun to itch, and Tuesday morning will find a good supply of dandruff when the hair is brushed. There is but one real scientific way of curing dandruff; and that is to kill the germ that causes it, and falling hair, and finally baldness. There is only one preparation that will destroy the germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It is an entirely new discovery and the only hair preparation that is based on the new scientific principle. In addition Herpicide is a very refreshing hair dressing for regular toilet use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

A PRESENTIMENT.

A lady recently consulted a local practitioner and said as soon as he came into the office:

"Dr. Richards, I have been reading articles in the Gazette about your work and when my teeth began to ache last night I had a distinct presentiment that I ought to go TO YOU about them, and here I am."

When she left the office she expressed herself as glad and not sorry that she had followed out her PRESENTIMENT, as she called it.

Now, this is only her way of expressing the fact that she was CONVINCED that Dr. Richards was the man who—

WAS DOING FOR OTHERS AND WOULD DO FOR HER—

CONTAGIOUS DISEASE IN CITY AT PRESENT

Two New Cases of Small-Pox in Mild Form Have Developed—One Patient Entirely Recovered.

There are at present several people in the city who are suffering with contagious diseases. A new case of smallpox from which the patient has already recovered was discovered at the home of Charles Murphy in the Jeffris flats on Dodge street yesterday. The little four-year-old girl had been ill for several weeks past, supposedly with chicken-pox. The physician in attendance so pronounced it. Recently other physicians made an examination and pronounced the malady smallpox and their diagnosis was confirmed by Health Officer McCarthy when he called yesterday. The rooms were thoroughly fumigated and there is no further danger in that quarter. The parents maintain that no one has been exposed and contradict the rumors to the contrary that have been spread by neighbors. Paul Buggs, who lives on Locust street, is also ill with the smallpox at his home on Locust street. Only a month ago he recovered from diphtheria and preceding that he had scarlet fever. There is one case of scarlet fever on Pleasant street and a case of diphtheria on Court street.

CASE BROUGHT BACK TO WISCONSIN COURT

Will of the Late Chris O'Rourke of Orfordville, Will Be Probated Here.

Telegraphic reports from Denver announce that the will of the late John O'Rourke of Orfordville, who died in Denver last July, will be brought to Rock county for probate. Considerable mystery surrounds the will Mr. O'Rourke left, in which he disposed of property valued at between ten and twelve thousand dollars, making his son and daughter both residents of this county, legatees, but also naming James L. Smith, a man he met in Denver, as executor of the document. J. J. Cunningham has been in Denver fighting to have the will probated in this county and has been successful.

MORTUARY MENTION

John Kemmett

All that is mortal of the late John Kemmett was tenderly laid at rest in Mount Olivet cemetery this morning. Funeral services were conducted from St. Mary's church at half-past nine o'clock by Rev. Fr. W. A. Goebel. The flowers were handsome and in great profusion. The pallbearers were Joseph Roach, Thornton Reed, William Kelley, William Hughes, William Sherman and John Kehoe. Among those present at the ceremonies from out of the city were John and Harry Kemmett of Chicago, sons of the deceased; Mr. and Mrs. T. McCue, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Johnson and Mrs. Carroll of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Bibbins of Beloit, sisters and their husbands; and Mrs. Miller, an aunt, and her daughter, from Duluth.

Miss Catherine Gorey

The remains of the late Francis Gorey arrived here from Chicago this morning at 11:40 o'clock over the Northwestern road and were taken to Mount Olivet cemetery for burial. Services were held earlier in the morning in Chicago. The pallbearers were all nephews of the deceased—Thomas Sughrue, Thomas Garry, J. Buson, Bernard Garry, C. J. Schley and J. Schley. Among those who accompanied the remains here were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sughrue, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Buson, Mr. and Mrs. Garry, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sughrue and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hartman, all of Chicago. John Gorey, a brother of the deceased, was here from Magnolia. The floral offerings were exceedingly beautiful and many.

PARCELS THAT WERE NEVER DELIVERED

Were Sold Under Hammer by United States Express Co. Today—Many Took Long Chances.

Packages that never reached their destinations, big parcels that may have contained within their wrappers precious heirlooms or common, every-day bird-cages, cooking utensils, cast-off garments, or what not, were sold under the hammer by the United States Express Co. today. They came from all over the state and have been in storage for the period of one year. Satchels and valises brought prices ranging from $1.25 to $3.00 and articles that were unmistakably firearms sometimes commanded as high as $4.00. One which showed no lump when the hammer ought to be expected, lively interest in the afternoon. The bidders realized that it might either be a hammerless or a dilapidated old breech-loader, perhaps, but someone took a gambler's chance and bid $4.25. The auctioneer, a rather elderly man, was gentle and suave in his talk to the multitude. When he came to a small parcel, which seemed to have the lines of a picture frame, he spoke of the recent death of the great painter, Meissonier, whose little pastels were worth from $7,000 to $8,000. "Of course, I am dealing in a different class of goods, but how much am I bid?" he would add and then someone would shout: "A quarter!" Usually the suggestion did its work and the level of bids would be raised for a time. There were two well-known society ladies in the crowd this afternoon and they would doubtless invite their friends in when the many treasures they bought are opened. The parcels will not be delivered to purchasers until the last is sold.

LOCAL NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

Report of Grand Encampment: Rock River Encampment No. 3, I. O. O. F., at its meeting tomorrow evening will receive a visit from a Past Grand Representative and the Grand Scribe of Wisconsin. The report of the proceedings of the session of the Grand Encampment held at Mineral Point will be given by the Lodge's representative who attended the session.

Pleasant Surprise: Former neighbors of Mrs. M. Hickey planned and successfully carried out a surprise on herself and daughters at their new home, 161 East street, last evening. They came laden with good things to eat and took full possession of the house. Supper was served at 7 and after an evening of genuine sociability the company departed, leaving very pleasant memories of the event.

The Certainly Read Ads: As a demonstration that people read advertisements in newspapers Helmsstreet's surprise bag offer, advertised for women, this morning brought many to the door before the store opened. At ten minutes to seven business was commenced and out of 175 callers who came in early in the line 172 bought articles in the store. The Gazette certainly reaches the people. If you have something they want the Gazette will give them the information.

Leaves Here Saturday: The Beloit College football team and two hundred rooters will pass through Janesville en route to Appleton on Saturday morning at eight o'clock. The train will stop at the Northwestern depot here long enough for the Janesville party to get aboard. The Beloit manager have secured a three-dollar round-trip rate for the excursion.

The Anniversary: The twenty-fourth anniversary of W. H. Sargent Post, G. A. R., will be celebrated at post hall tomorrow night. Maj. S. C. Cobb will give a history of the organization from the start. Capt. Norcross will be the principal speaker. There will be singing and recitations. Light refreshments will be served. All members of the post and all members of the Woman's Relief Corps are invited. By order of C. M. Too Much Firewater: John Birmingham and Thomas Nash had also edged too much firewater and acknowledged it in municipal court today. The former paid $1 and costs and the latter $3 and costs.

JOLIET NEWS HAS AN INTERESTING STORY

Announces "Gang" of Former Janesville Resident is on the Run—Hints at Legal Trouble.

In the Joliet Daily News of recent issue a big scare head appears which announces: "Crolius Gang Are On the Run. Indictment Stuns Them and They Are About Ready to Flee From Joliet. Many Have Already Gone." The article refers to ex-Mayor Crolius, a former resident of Janesville, who was defeated for re-election last spring. The article is as follows:

"The gang is on the run. Several of the most desperate members have already left Joliet and others are preparing to get out. The determination to get the guilty parties and punish them at last has them terrified. Crolius himself is making a last desperate stand to rally his forces. He is putting on a bold front, but his followers are deserting right and left, as they see the bad situation into which he is leading them. Maxon and his gang came to Joliet last spring before the election to help him out. They planned the frauds by which they hoped to have Crolius counted in. Crolius himself is making savage attacks upon those who are attempting to land the criminals and is appealing to every prejudice his cunning mind can bring up. But the indictments found by the grand jury has taken the nerve out of all the others and some good evidence is being added to that obtained by the jury. Crolius himself has an office in Chicago now and is ready to leave on short notice. But does not intend to go until he has made every effort to maintain a hold here. Much of the evidence upon which the indictments were found in the ballot fraud cases was furnished by the committee consisting of Fred C. Wilcox, Rev. Robert Yost of the Central Presbyterian church, and George Woodruff, vice president of the First National bank. This committee worked hand in hand with Crolius. Crolius attempted to block the work of the committee, the Pinkertons and the state's attorney for sending Captain Murphy after him at Abilene, Kas. The facts are coming to light and from now on until the gang is landed behind the bars in the penitentiary there will be no lot-up in the warfare. The Joliet public is bound to punish the criminals that try to steal the election from Barr by changing those ballots. The committee of three ought to be continued until the great task is finished. There ought to be no sentimental trifling. The factional fight that is being made on the republican side should not afford the gang a shield behind which they can hope to hide and thus escape their just deserts."

RECEPTION FOR NEW PASTOR AND WIFE

At the Presbyterian Parlor Last Evening Was Well Attended—Very Enjoyable Occasion.

There was a large attendance at the reception given for Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Laughlin at the Presbyterian church parlors last evening. The apartments were appropriately decorated for the occasion and guests were received in the east room. Tempting refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation and a delightful evening was enjoyed by all the participants.

TO GIVE SMOKER FOR THE RETAIL GROCERS

Janesville Wholesale Grocery Co. Will Be Host at Pleasant Gathering Tonight.

Retail grocers of Janesville and Rock county will be guests of the Janesville Wholesale Grocery Co. at a social gathering in their offices this evening. The affair is to be something in the nature of an informal smoker at which subjects of common interest will be discussed by a number of the visitors. A very enjoyable time is anticipated.

A Successful Opening

The Big Store is certainly at its best this week. The fall opening was ushered in yesterday to continue through Saturday. The many people who attended were profuse with their praise of the decorations. Mr. Gates, who planned and carried out both the window and interior trimmings, has shown himself to be a master of the art of store-decorating. Women were surprised at the beautiful goods displayed, not expecting to see them outside of the large cities. Autumn leaves and sheaves of grain lent a charm to the interior decorations. The symphonious strains from Knott's orchestra entertained the ever-changing crowd afternoon and evening and added materially to the event, which marks an epoch for store-openings in this city. The staircase and carpet department on the second floor are adorned with rich oriental rugs, which show off to excellent advantage. Their immense stock of brussels carpets is so arranged that all patterns can be seen. J. M. Bostwick & Sons can well feel elated over the success of their opening. The orchestra will again hold forth Saturday afternoon and evening.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL TAXES TOO LOW

Decision Rendered by Attorney General Stead Is Far- Reaching.

HOLDS STATE LOSES MILLIONS

Road Has Been Paying 7 Per Cent on Gross Earnings Instead of 5 Per Cent and Regular Assessment on Its Valuations.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—Attorney General Stead, in an opinion given to Auditor McCullough, makes a ruling which, if sustained in the courts, will saddle the Illinois Central railroad with an unpaid back tax bill which will amount to a sum approximating $100,000,000. Moreover, the taxes of the road will in the future be doubled and the line, from being a 7 per cent dividend payer, will be thrown into the class of roads which pay 4 and 5 per cent.

According to the attorney general the system under which the road has been paying revenue in the state treasury in lieu of taxes has not been enforced in accordance with the provisions of the road's charter, and the interpretation put upon the franchise by the state officers for the past half century has been all wrong. The road has been paying 7 per cent of its gross earnings into the state treasury since its organization. The attorney general says it should pay 5 per cent and, in addition, an annual tax figured by the state auditor "upon all the property and assets of every character belonging to the corporation."

Decision Is a Surprise.

John L. Pickering, publisher of a weekly pamphlet upon tax matters, is said to be responsible for the opinion which has been given. Some time ago he raised the point that the method of taxing the Illinois Central which has so long been in force was not in accordance with the road's charter. Auditor McCullough early in September referred the question to Attorney General Stead and he has since been working on it. The decision is the result. There had been little discussion of the matter and the opinion came as a great surprise.

Auditor McCullough announced that he would accept the interpretation of the law as given by the attorney general and would make the required demand upon the railroad for the taxes which, under this ruling are due. The road will, of course, resist the tax, for its interpretation of the law is the one which has been followed in the past. Then the attorney general will bring suit and a long, hard-fought legal battle is certain to result.

Big Job for Lawyers.

In the event there is an effort to get all of the taxes which should be due under the interpretation there is no telling where or when the litigation will end. Even to approximate the amounts due will be an enormous task of itself and it is not likely that anything in the way of a correct figure will ever be reached.

No valuation of the property of the railroad has been made by the auditor's office since 1899, the 7 per cent theory having been adopted, and there being no occasion, with this rule in force, for the placing of a valuation on the road. Complications in making figures necessarily arise from the fact that the road has constantly been undergoing changes of one sort and another, all of which it will be necessary to trace.

Saves Millions in Taxes.

An indication of the changes which the new rule will make is to be had by the reference to the balance sheet of the railroad company for 1903, which is the last schedule upon which an assessment was made. The road at that time had property coming under the head which, according to Stead, is subject to taxation, amounting to $251,712,852.57 in value.

The state tax for the present year is 55 cents on $100 valuation, and without contemplating any increase in the value of the property for the past two years the company would have been taxed $1,388,000 this year in addition to the $758,979.90, which represents 5 per cent of its gross earnings for the year. This would have brought the aggregate taxes to $2,146,979.90. Instead of this amount the company paid into the state treasury $1,062,571.86.

Shoots Wife; Kills Self.

Coshocton, Ohio, Oct. 19.—After vainly seeking a reconciliation with his wife, who had secured a divorce, William Tubbs went to the Farmers' hotel, conducted by his wife, and shot her twice. He then shot himself, dying almost instantly. The woman's life was saved by a leather band she wore.

Father of Twenty-four.

Berwick, Pa., Oct. 19.—Burton Garrison of this city is receiving congratulations upon the birth of his twenty-fourth child—a daughter. Garrison is 65 and has been married three times. Of his children twenty are dead. Two wives have died.

Bombs From Balloon Hit Fort.

Toul, France, Oct. 19.—In the course of further experiments with the huge dirigible balloon the aeronauts succeeded in dropping dummy projectiles upon the forts, demonstrating the war utility of the machine.

The inaugural ceremonies in connection with the formal installation of President Lancaster at Oliver College are to be held on Oct. 25, and representatives of a number of universities will participate.

JAPANESE NAVAL SURGERY.

Extraordinary Precautions Taken to Protect Men in Battle.

Surgeon General S. Suzuki of the Imperial Japanese navy in his recent address at Detroit before the fourteenth convention of military surgeons of the United States made what was declared by Medical Director Joseph S. Wise of the United States navy to be the most valuable contribution of modern times to naval surgery. He described in detail the surgical methods used in the Japanese fleet. He told how surgeons, before every engagement, carefully inspected the eyes of all gunners on the warships; how the ears of every man in the fleet were plugged with cotton before the firing began and how Admiral Togo fought his fleet from the compass bridge of the Mikasa instead of the conning tower. Dr. Suzuki said: "Much of our success in the treatment of wounds I ascribe to the fact that before every engagement I ordered each member of the crew to undress and put on perfectly clean underclothing. In a great many 'shot wounds' fragments of clothing are carried into the body, and our insistence upon clean underclothing prevented many cases of blood poisoning among our wounded."

"Our experience during the war proved that the conning tower of a warship is a most dangerous situation. Fragments of shell penetrate through the slits in the tower made to furnish the commanding officer a range of vision and do great damage. Realizing this fact, Admiral Togo in all the naval engagements directed his fleet from the compass bridge of the Mikasa without receiving at any time the slightest wound."

"The vision of the men who fire the guns on a warship must necessarily be of the very best if their shots are to count. Before every engagement the surgeons in the Japanese fleets examined carefully the eyes of all the gunners. Any of them found with slight impairment of vision were treated, and if the impairment was too grave to yield to immediate treatment they were transferred to another station and their places filled by men whose eyes were perfect."

"During engagements every battery crew was supplied with water in which a 1 per cent solution of boric acid had been mixed to wash out their eyes when they became affected by powder smoke or dust. We also issued to every man in the fleet before going into action cotton wool with which to plug his ears and thereby prevent rupture of the eardrums by the concussion of the gun fire."

VALLEY TO BECOME A SEA.

Engineer Says Flood Will Follow Irrigation in California.

Disastrous results from irrigation in the Imperial valley in southern California were predicted the other night by George Y. Wisner of Detroit, an engineer and member of the International waterways commission. Mr. Wisner was speaking before the Detroit Engineering society, says a Detroit dispatch.

"Within twenty years thousands of people who have taken up government lands in the Imperial valley will be driven out by water, their homes and fields forming the bottom of an immense inland sea," he said.

"The cause of the coming catastrophe is poor engineering in diverting the course of the Colorado river for irrigation purposes. The river has cut into the banks of its new course to such an extent that nearly all of the Colorado river flows down into the valley. The engineers realize the danger, but after many frantic efforts have failed to change the river's course back to its old bed."

"Not for twenty years will the evaporation down there be equal to the inflow into the valley. By that time a million acres of the valley, which is from 60 to 205 feet below the sea level, will be covered by an inland sea."

Smallest Dog in the World.

Chiquita, the smallest dog in the world, is coming to New York. Her trip does not require any special preparation. Her private car will be her master's coat pocket, and at night she will sleep as she does at home, in her master's hat, says the New York American. Chiquita weighs only twenty-three ounces, though she is two and a half years old. She is one of the last of her race, being a Chihuahua, a breed which fast is becoming extinct. Aside from being extremely ornamental, Chiquita has a grave and serious mission. She is her master's watchdog and many times has proved a very effective burglar alarm. She is owned by Hamilton Rayner of El Paso, but is registered with the American Kennel club of New York.

Satan Dying Under Doctor's Knife.

While Miss Louisa Butler lay dying on an operating table in the Blue Island hospital at Chicago before daylight the other day, with surgeons working to save her life, she retained consciousness, says a Chicago dispatch, and sang in low, clear tones: Abide with me. Fast falls the eventide, The darkness deepens; Lord, with me abide. When other helpers fail and comforts flee, Help of the helpless, O abide with me!

She died with the hymn on her lips. Miss Butler's skirt caught in a step as she alighted from a Rock Island train, and she was thrown under the wheels and terribly crushed.

World's Biggest Hydraulic Fill.

The largest hydraulic fill in the world is being built in the Alamosa river, about twenty miles west of Monte Vista, Colo. When completed it will form a reservoir in the Alamosa, the water from which will irrigate nearly 50,000 acres of land.

Sheboygan county received for its dairy products during the year ending April 30, over $2,000,000, of which $1,197,750 was for cheese. This enormous quantity of cheese was manufactured by 110 factories.

DEATH AND FORTUNE AT ONCE.

Destitute Marble Cutter Could Have Been Millionaire.

Bellingham, Wash., Oct. 19.—Examination of the effects of William Wilson, a stone cutter and marble worker, who died here in destitute circumstances, disclosed the fact that $300,000 in cash, left from the estate of a brother, J. R. Wilson, who recently died in Peru, and on deposit in New York, was awaiting his claim. The brother's will further bequeathed a third in the steamships and other property, making a total value of the inheritance nearly $900,000. In addition, $60,000 cash from the estate of another brother, B. A. Wilson, late editor of the Belfast Morning News, and a prominent writer of Ireland, was awaiting the appearance of William Wilson in New York.

Short Hair for Students.

Dundee, Scotland, Oct. 19.—Andrew Carnegie, in an address to the girl students at the Dundee university college, advised them to cut their hair short for hygienic reasons. He said he hoped they would, nevertheless, retain their long-haired ways.

Three Trains in Wreck.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 19.—Two Philadelphia & Reading freight trains were wrecked near Birdsboro, Pa., and a passenger train ran into the debris, leaving the track. Several persons were injured.

Souvenir Fiends at Work.

With reference to the recent closing of Stonehenge to the public, Sir Edmund Antrobus, the owner, entered a shop in Salisbury, where dozens of small hammers were on sale. Asking an explanation, he was assured by the shopkeeper that people bought the hammers in order to chip off souvenirs from the ancient Druidical stones.

Changed Her Mind.

"So you wish to break our engagement?" he asked, bitterly. "I do; I feel that you do not appreciate me as you should," she responded.

"Then I shall sue you for breach of promise, for a hundred thousand dollars damages!"

With a cry of delight the fair young thing threw herself into his arms. "Forgive me, George," she murmured. "I was mistaken. If you think my affection is worth that much to you, I am yours."

THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A GREAT STATE SANATORIUM.

A Highly Commendable project.

Wisconsin possesses an enviable reputation for its excellent climate, beautiful landscape, spring-fed, fertile soil and its vast forests. These elements combine the essentials for the continued health and material progress of the state's inhabitants. The Wisconsin State Legislature has recently appropriated nearly $100,000, the nucleus of a fund for the establishment and maintenance of a worthy State Sanatorium. This project is great enough to require the attention of a well selected committee comprised of five of the leading physicians of the state, who are carefully procuring particulars regarding every possible site that affords the conditions necessary to the perfect carrying out of the work of this new state institution. This committee is taxed with a very important duty and it should be the endeavor of the communities of the State of Wisconsin to afford them every possible assistance in their work. As an instance of the interest taken in this matter, the Chicago & North-Western Railway company is making an effort to give information regarding the country country contiguous to its line of railway.

In obtaining this information it is necessary that it be understood what the requirements are. This sanatorium must be close to a line of railway that affords every convenience for accessibility, but not within a town or city. A picturesque location of woodland and water is very necessary in the success of the work of an institution of this kind. It must be situated on the south slope of good sized hills with protection from east, north and north-west winds by vigorous forest growths and overlook a small lake or lakes lying to the south thereof. The elevation must be moderate on rolling or hilly ground not subject to local fogs. The soil should be sand or gravelly loam, not heavy clay, but susceptible to cultivation and the raising of garden vegetables. The water supply should be from spring or subterranean sources. The area of this site should be several hundred acres in extent.

With all of these particulars at hand the eligible sites should be readily described and reference thereto promptly furnished and put into the hands of the commission. As stated, the North-Western line has interested itself in this matter for the purpose of procuring for the commission all the facts that it can, and any information in line with the above that our community may wish presented will be promptly taken care of and submitted to the commission by the railway authorities, if brought to their attention.

International Live Stock Show at Chicago December 2d to 9th.

The International Live Stock Show opens this year under conditions more favorable than ever. The Coliseum, a handsome new structure built for this purpose, will be completed and used for the first time.

The display of live stock is to be so complete that it promises to even exceed the perfection of former years.

Professor Herbert W. Munford of Illinois is quoted in the following short but pithy comment on the International:

"It is at the International that breeders and buyers mingle to mutual advantage. The breeder becomes better informed as to approval market types; and thus the International becomes a potent factor in giving direction to the breeders' efforts toward live stock improvement."

Low rates over the North-Western line from all points west will be announced soon.

Home Health Club

By DAVID H. REEDER, Ph. D., M. D.

WAKEFULNESS.

When persons who do not otherwise appear to be ill suffer from continued wakefulness, this is a pretty sure sign of mental exhaustion, sometimes brought about by worry over trifles. When any part of the body is especially exerted the blood flows in increased quantity back to that part. So, when there is any stress laid on the brain, the head becomes surcharged with blood, as is shown by the flushing of the face. If the condition is long continued the blood vessels lose the power of contracting. Then the blood remains in an excited state, even when the mind has no longer any desire to work and it cannot take its proper rest in sleep. In order to enjoy refreshing sleep it is necessary that the blood be not concentrated in the head, but be diffused equally through all parts of the body. This is the reason why the warm (not hot) bath just before going to bed is so conducive to a good night's repose. It is, however, the best way not to allow the mind to get excited near the hour of rest, but to let it run down gradually, like a clock, in the evening. There have been some wonderful cases of sleeplessness caused by undue mental exertion. Boerhaave, the Dutch philosopher, tells us that at one time he was so absorbed in a particular study that he did not close his eyes in sleep for six weeks. This seems incredible. A French general asserted that for a whole year, while engaged in active warfare, he slept but one hour in 24. These and similar cases are probably exaggerated. We all know how often people are unwilling to admit that they have been asleep when they have really had a sound nap.

The persons mentioned could possibly have survived such prolonged wakefulness without great injury. I have personally worked five days and nights without stopping to sleep or rest. An attendant of the late Emperor Louis Napoleon, whose nervous system had become deranged, died simply from inability to sleep.

I know a professor of astrology whom I should judge to be about 65 years old, and has a most excellent reputation. Without any possible advantage to be gained through a misstatement, he assured me that he had not slept at all for over 16 years. He claims to work 23 hours during the 24, aside from the time of meals, bathing, exercise, dressing, etc., and rests one hour, lying flat upon his back while practicing scientific deep breathing according to a method peculiarly his own. I cite these cases merely to show that the need of so many hours of sleep as some think they ought to have, is not absolute. Some people require a great deal of sleep, and some very little. In many cases of wakefulness, the trouble may be entirely overcome by using no hearty foods for the evening meal, which should not be eaten later than six o'clock. Just before retiring at ten o'clock take a large cupful of very hot milk, not boiled, but simply heated to the boiling point. Add just a little, say two tablespoonfuls, of boiling water, and then sip all of it slowly with a teaspoon. Not only will this cure many cases of wakefulness, but the general health will be greatly benefited and the nerves soothed and strengthened. The blood which was in the head is drawn to the stomach, and the circulation is then benefited. Milk taken in this way will not cause constipation.

CLUB NOTES.

Masonville.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: I wish to consult you in regard to my case. I have been troubled with a severe beating of the heart. It seems to come from my stomach. Will you kindly tell me what to do for this trouble? Yours truly, Mrs. M. A.

I think your trouble is entirely due to an accumulation of gas in the stomach; it is often the cause of many disagreeable symptoms, prominent among which are palpitation of the heart, dizziness, shortness of breath, various pains, etc., often attributed to other causes. When the accumulation is removed, however, they disappear, so these symptoms need not alarm you. The use of the lavender oil for such conditions—a few drops on a piece of sugar after meals—is only for temporary relief, and should not be used more than two or three times. Charcoal tablets are better, especially because they are easily kept on hand and taken whenever the trouble appears. However, the best thing for you to do would be to remove the cause of the accumulation and thereby establish a permanent cure.

Hope.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: Having been an interested reader of "Club Notes" appearing at regular intervals in our paper, and preserving much valuable information therefrom, I feel like offering at least my share of help for the suffering.

In the last reading I find a letter from "Mrs. G. E. Iowa," asking for "information and relief for enlarged joints." About 20 years ago I was severely afflicted with swelling and soreness of all the small joints of both hands. As I did my own housework, and could get no permanent relief from any remedy recommended or from doctoring, it threatened to disable me. Physicians called it rheumatic gout, which I could not understand, as I am small and thin, having never used stimulating food or drinks.

The use of water, hot as I could bear to hold my hands in and covering with a towel to hold the steam, and letting my hands lie in the water until cooled off, gave most relief. I did this about twice a day. This partially checked the swelling. My daughter then made a prescription, taking pulverized slippery elm bark and camphor gum, making a hot poultice and putting my hands in mittens filled with it, for two hours each day—took all the soreness and swelling from them in a few weeks. Have had no trouble since until this summer when one thumb joint which I am poulticing. I am thinking of trying the Schuessler tissue elements you recommend. One of our physicians in our town uses them. I trust this will be of use to some one. Sincerely, Mrs. C.

The treatment which you have suggested should be very valuable in any case where one suffers from enlarged joints. It is certainly harmless and safe. The Schuessler tissue elements you will find beneficial if properly prescribed, and I am glad to learn that your physician uses them. I trust other readers of these lectures will contribute to Club Notes. You must remember that our motto is "Pass It On."

White Lake.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: There is one thing I have thought of many times while reading the "Club Notes" in our paper, and that is in regard to preparing a cold compress. You have spoken of wringing the compress out of hot or boiling water. I think I have found a better way to manage it. I take a cloth as large as I need and fold to the size and thickness required. Then wring it out of cold or comfortably warm water. I then take a newspaper—one of three or four sheets is just the thing—and put it on top of the cook stove and put the cloth inside of it; hold it there, turning it, paper and all, every little while, and it will in a very short time be as hot as can be borne, and can be carried to the patient wrapped in the paper, with less danger of cooling, and no trouble with hot water to the hands. I have had a great many occasions to use compresses, both hot and cold, in caring for my children. Hoping that some one will make use of my suggestion, I am, respectfully yours, Mrs. W.

I approve of your suggestion very highly, and would advise anyone who has any occasion to use a hot compress to try this method.

Bismarck.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.—Dear Sir: My wife appears to be so tired and worn out every evening that it is impossible for her to go to sleep. I am also very poorly. Any advice would be thankfully received. Very respectfully, A. L. Z.

As your letter contains but a very brief description of both your own and your wife's case, I would suggest that you write me more in detail, and I will cheerfully advise you to the best of my ability. To-day's lecture should be read by your wife very carefully, and the method of treatment adopted, after which I think she will soon notice an improvement.

Mexico.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: I have read in your Home Health Club column a suggestion as to the use of the fumes of boiling vinegar as being valuable for catarrh. As I have nasal catarrh, I therefore write you for information. The left side of nose is entirely stopped up, and I do not hear good out of left ear. The doctors say the Eustachian tube is stopped up, which has been the case for the past three years. How long is it necessary to use the vinegar this way to effect a cure?

I also notice an article upon stomach and liver trouble. Do you publish a book relative to how to keep in good health? Do you know of a remedy to stop the superfluous growth of beard above the beard line? The beard grows almost up to my eyes. Yours truly, E. J.

Catarrh is a widespread affliction, but can be overcome by proper methods as taught by the Home Health Club. In the club books and pamphlets full instructions are given for its home treatment, this including a set of exercises for increasing the circulation in the mucous lining of the respiratory passages. I think you would be wise to practice these faithfully, and you will note improvement from the start. Therefore I refer you to the cloth-bound book of lectures, or the lectures in series two in pamphlet form.

As you state that the Eustachian tubes are also affected, you had probably better procure the tissue remedies indicated for catarrhal deafness. In regard to the superfluous growth of beard, I would advise you to let it alone, unless it becomes too annoying. Otherwise it is best not to tamper with it.

All readers of this publication are at liberty to write for any information pertaining to the subject of health. Address all communications to the Home Health Club, or Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind., with name and address in full, and at least four cents in postage.

Happy Argentina.

Argentina is a white man's country. The white races thrive under its skies. The average of human stature, of physical strength and of intelligence is increasing; the races who are throwing in their lot with this country are raising the standard of their physical perfection, while morally, the average plane of our ethics bears favorable comparison with that of our rivals. It will be our own fault if ours is not the leadership of South America.—Buenos Ayres Southern Cross.

WEED PULLING FOR GOSSIPS.

Pennsylvania Ladies Form Novel Club to Stop Village Tattle.

Residents of the little village of Atco, down in Camden county, Pa., are busy removing weeds from their yards, and the beautifying process was brought about through the diplomacy of the wife of Rev. William L. Squires, who is the pastor of the Presbyterian church at that place, says the Philadelphia Press.

The removal of the weeds was the preliminary move by several prominent residents who have joined a club, the object of which is to refrain from gossip under a penalty of removing weeds from her own yard or that of her neighbor.

The other night Mrs. Squires invited several of the lady members of the club to the parsonage, and after they had partaken of tea and cookies she unfolded her neat little plan, which she hoped would put a stop to the gossip in the community among the members.

The scheme as explained by Mrs. Squires is like this: "Every one who enrolls as a member must promise not to participate in any kind of gossip whatever, except, of course, what is good for the cause of religion. We meetings will be held every two weeks at the home of the members. If any member of the club is self-conscious of having participated in gossip detrimental to the church or the community or any member thereof during the two weeks it shall be her duty to pluck from her yard or that of her neighbor a weed for every violation of her promise. At the ensuing meeting all these weeds will be gathered into one huge pile and burned."

One of the male members present was asked to join, but declined, declaring that he had a weak back, and as his duties compelled him to do considerable talking he was afraid that his bundle of weeds would be so heavy at the end of two weeks that he would be unable to carry them.

EMBEZZLEMENT, FOLK SAYS

Missouri Governor Talks of Insurance Aid to Campaign Funds.

Governor Joseph W. Folk of Missouri in a recent speech at Warrensburg, Mo., announced his views on life insurance "graft" in this language: "When directors of the great insurance companies use money for their own profit, that is 'graft,' when the president of a great insurance company takes funds held in trust for the beneficiaries of insurance policies and without their knowledge and consent converts a part of a trust fund into a political campaign fund, that is embezzlement, just the same as if a public official in charge of public funds were to put his hands into the public treasury and take therefrom money which he turns over to some one else for political or private purposes.

"If insurance companies cannot exist without resorting to bribery and surreptitious violations of the law, it would be better for the people that they be wiped out of existence. The time may come when the state will insure her own citizens at a far less cost and with far more safety to those who need that protection. When one reflects that Missouri alone sends away premiums amounting to $14,054,040.13 a year, the gigantic nature of the insurance trust can be realized. The millions piled up in the great insurance companies seem to be the foundation of what is known as the 'system' whereby the financial affairs of the country are manipulated to the injury of the people and the benefit of the special few."

A Novel Hunting Trip.

That the motor car is capable of being put to surprising uses is demonstrated in an article in Harper's Weekly describing an automobile hunting and camping expedition recently made by three Americans through Maine and Canada. Three autos started on the trip northward from Portland, carrying in addition to the members of the party, a "road building" equipment consisting of block and tackle, rope, axes, shovels and crowbars, four tents, a cooking outfit, a supply of concentrated foods, rifles and fishing tackle. The autos journeyed through tracts of forest so wild that it was necessary to clear a way for them, and at night camp was pitched by some lake or stream. Considerable game was shot from the machines in the course of the trip, which extended as far as Bic, Quebec.

Where They Feared the Eclipse.

The effect on uneducated people of the recent solar eclipse is vividly described in the following letter which a London Chronicle correspondent recently received from a noncommissioned officer of the royal engineers stationed at Malta: "Did you see much of the eclipse on the 30th? We had a splendid view of it here. The Maltese nearly went mad with fright, thinking the world was coming to an end. All the people in the village where I am living ran into the church, while some even fired off large squibs (something of the fireworks tribe, I mean), but it was all over in about a quarter of an hour, and then the Maltese left the church and made their way back to their houses, looking very much scared."

COMEDIAN LEWIS IS THE SAME OLD DAVE

Appeared Here in Musical Play "The Geezer of Geck" Last Evening—Greeted by a Big Audience.

Because of its obvious superficiality, humor which owes its life and being to a play on words is always less effective and lasting than the species which arises from a new and unexpected idea or the sudden creation of a relationship between ideas and concepts that have heretofore been utter strangers. That is one of the differences between the writings of Bill Nye and those of Mark Twain and it constitutes a distinction which may be drawn between the comedy of such a production as "The Geezer of Geck" and that of "The Yankee Consul." Algonon Stealit ordering "a yard of pork" at the dinner table and explaining that he meant three pigs' feet, was amusing of course, but not born yesterday—but Abijah Boozie, penniless and thirsty, resorting to the strategic expedient of plucking an artificial grasshopper from the bottom of his wine-glass with the pretense that he had been compelled to throw the contents away, was infinitely more diverting. Blossom's book of "The Yankee Consul" abounds in entertaining absurdities; R. J. Adams' "Geezer of Geck," in playful nonsense.

Whether he be the sovereign of Geckland or the royal chef, Dave Lewis is the same Dave Lewis. German dialect with a nasal twang, outrageous contortions with words, smiles that are bland and melting, and pale, plaintive, droning songs expressing sentiments quite the reverse, are his stock in trade. His methods do not change, nor his vehicles—much. This year, however, he has surrounded himself with a larger and better chorus than he has had before. There are women who are agreeably different from the customary stage dummies, and they can all sing. The music by Paul Schindler is pretty, the costumes varied and beautiful, and the scenery and scenic effects all that could be desired.

Toby Lyons and Henry Norman, the eccentric tramps, made the first hit last evening with the inane ridiculous song, "Mother, Pin a Rose On Me." The first big burst of applause, however, was for Amelia Stone and the chorus in the singing of "Daisy Land." The prima donna has a pure and pleasing voice and when the two stage presences and their bouquets "Little Schmids" appeared on the scene and the motion picture shower of wild flowers fell the spectators demanded repetition again and again. John Park, a one-looking man but a casual sort of a lover and actor, is also gifted with a fine voice and his duets with Miss Stone were well received. May Taylor will be an actress of some renown some day. Her "stage-struck waitress" part was well done and the "minstrel-on-parade" feature which she headed was really one of the best things in the piece, though the audience failed to demand a second recall. "The Fakir Man" with the witch-dancers, led by Toby Lyons, who was well remembered here in "The Isle of Spice," and the babies dance led by Nena Blake were diverting and the drinking song by the male chorus "connected." The patriotic Fourth of July song and march with the gorgeous gowns and the motion picture fireworks was the grand finale and sent everyone home happy.

Forfeit Charters.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 19.—A movement has been started here to raise by popular subscription in the south $50,000 or a sum sufficient to pay the duty on the presents bestowed upon Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the president, during her trip through the orient. The plan is intended to show the appreciation of the south for the president's recent efforts in behalf of peace between Russia and Japan, in inaugurating the construction of the isthmian canal and other acts of his administration which have endeared him to the people of all sections without regard to political affiliations.

...LINK AND PIN... News for the Railroad Men

St. Paul Road. Brakeman Burkett is relieving Ernest Longhenry on the Mineral Point passenger run.

Engineer Royal Mead and fireman Perry Kuehling double headed the Mineral Point passenger with locomotive number 1320 this morning as far as Shullsburg where they will relieve the engine on the Shullsburg run while that is in Jamesville for repairs.

A freight car was derailed this morning on a side track at the crossing near Friedman's tobacco warehouse and the main line from Mineral Point was blocked as a result. The trains over this division entered and left the city by way a side track.

Ed Dousman of Milwaukee is acting as day operator at the depot. Fred Manthey has returned to the night trick.

New chairs have been placed in ladies waiting room.

New York.—Railroad circles here have not been reassured by the President's determination to foot all of his own expenses during his approaching Southern trip. It is believed that this decision only emphasizes Mr. Roosevelt's determination to do something to obliterate the railroad-ratting evil and wants to feel perfectly free to exercise his own will in the matter. The railroads would have been only too glad to furnish the transportation and other facilities of the journey free of charge, but the President did not think that he should accept free transportation, so, consequently will pay the $5,000 cost of the journey out of his own private purse.

The first shipment of the new vestibules with which the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company will equip one-third of its surface cars for the coming winter is expected to arrive within the next two weeks. The month of November will be devoted to equipping the cars with these vestibules. When the task is completed the cars will have fenders at each end and the motorman will be protected from the severe winter weather.

Lord Beaconsfield was pestered with books sent him by unknown authors, with a view of getting his favorable testimonial upon them. To one of these meddlesome people he wrote the following note: "Dear Sir: I have duly received your book and shall lose no time in reading it." The author could take it whichever way he pleased.

HOW MUCH OF YOUR LIFE IS SPENT IN TRYING TO GET OUT OF THE FRYING PAN WITHOUT GETTING INTO THE FIRE?

To many people the little accidents and incidents of daily life turn into "Frying Pans," with exits leading into the flames—which is merely another way of saying that these people "stew" and fret and worry over things that happen, and in seeking "ways out," or remedies, usually only succeed in making things worse.

It requires but a small thing to put the average man or woman on a "frying pan." The loss of a good clerk, a good tenant, a pocket-book, a servant—any one of these losses is enough; and then it is a case of "nerves," and irritation and fuss and fury until relief comes.

But it is not necessary, in getting out of these "frying pans," to get singed and scorched and blistered. Acting like a derrier, a want advertisement will usually land you free and clear of both pan and fire—but you take some risk in trying to leap the hurdle unassisted.

AND THE BEST PART OF IT IS THIS: THAT, AFTER A WHILE, "THE WANT AD. HABIT" WILL ENTIRELY CURE YOU OF THE "FRYING PAN HABIT," SO THAT YOU WILL NO LONGER BEGIN TO "TO STEW" OR "BOIL" WHEN SOMETHING GOES WRONG—BUT WILL TURN TO WANT ADVERTISING AS EASILY AND NATURALLY AS YOU WOULD TURN TO A SHOE STORE FOR SHOES, OR TO A STREET CAR TO TAKE YOU HOME.
